Are you an Emerging Conservation Professional? Join ECPN.

Emerging Conservation Professionals Network

Get involved through the ECPN member community for blog posts, discussion boards, and more!

www.culturalheritage.org/ecpn
ECPN is a forum and network for those just learning about or entering the field of conservation, including undergraduates, pre-program individuals, graduate students, and early-career conservation professionals. We do this by:

- Developing targeted programming and resources to support emerging conservation professionals transitioning through early career stages.
- Connecting emerging conservation professionals with educational and professional development opportunities.
- Fostering communication between emerging and experienced conservation professionals.